Liberty National Bank OF ELLSWORTH

TWO BILLION DOLLAR INSURANCE FUND

The Federal Reserve Banking System may be likened to a two billion dollar mutual insurance fund which we and 7,600 other banks maintain at all times to give us the currency our depositors need to stand back of us in time of financial stress and to enable us to give better and safer banking service in many ways.

Every one of our depositors, large or small, without any additional cost, participates in the protection and benefits of this great system.

If you would like to have this nation-wide fund back of you, let us write or talk with you about it.

Miss J. A. Thompson left to-day on a business trip to Boston.

Mrs. Ada Emery of Brunswick is the guest of Mrs. A. P. Wiswell.

The Thursday club will meet this week with Mrs. Henry M. Hall.

The Methodist society will serve supper in its vestry Nov. 11.

Julius Young spent the week-end with his sister, Mrs. Ralph W. Carter, at East Bluehill.

Mrs. Mary F. DeMeyer of Eastbrook is visiting her brother, H. W. Dunn, of this city.

Mrs. Isaac Jordan has gone to Framingham, Mass., to spend the winter with her son.

The new Dirigo picture theatre will be ready for formal opening about December 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Wiggin are receiving congratulations on the birth, last Saturday, of a son.

Lieut. Frank M. Smith, U. S. N., has joined his family, now living here, on a furlough of two weeks.

The Woman's Alliance of the Unitarian church will have a cooked food sale Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 23.

Congratulations are extended Lieut. and Mrs. Edmund E. Brady, jr., on the birth of a son, born last Sunday at Bangor.

Wivurna encampment, I. O. O. F., will work the patriarchal degree on three candidates next Monday evening, Nov. 8.

Mr. and Mrs. Alpheus H. Lyon of Orono, who have been the guests of Mrs. Walter Cushman, returned Monday.

Mrs. James Perry and son Arthur, with a friend, Miss Nell, of Hoboken, N. J., were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Curtis.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Smith of Springfield, Mass., are receiving congratulations from Ellsworth friends on the birth on October 27 of a son.

William E. Whiting has presented his resignation as a member of the Ellsworth school board. It will be acted upon at the meeting of the city government this evening.

Mrs. W. A. Strout of Lawrence, Mass., is visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. M. S. Frost, on Central street. Mrs. Strout has also visited in Bar Harbor and Northeast Harbor.

Mrs. Erastus Moore, who is employed at the Ellsworth hardwood factory, fell Saturday morning, while going up the steps to the factory, sustaining a fracture of one elbow.

The children of the Unitarian parish had a merry evening at the vestry last Friday, in a Hallowe'en party. Many parents were also present to enjoy watching and helping the children in their games. Refreshments were served.

At the meeting of the woman's club yesterday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. E. J. Collins, Mrs. Percy Hill of Northeast Harbor gave an interesting talk on Lafayette national park, illustrating the same by official photographs of park scenes. The musical program consisted of vocal solos by Mrs. Ralph Wescott, Mrs. Howard Walker and Miss Erva Giles.

Dr. B. M. Platt and his wife, Dr. Mary Burnham Platt, with sons, Howard and Robert Platt, are visiting Mrs. Platt's sister, Mrs. Kate Doyle. Dr. and Mrs. Platt are now located at Bagnio, Philippine Islands, on the staff of an industrial and manual training school for Igorote children, established by the American Episcopal board in 1906. They are also doing medical missionary work among the Igorotes. Dr. and Mrs. Platt are here on a six-months' leave, and will return to Manila in March or April. They came to this country to place in Northfield seminary a daughter, Muriel, aged sixteen, and in the Mt. Hermon School for Boys, a son, Arthur, aged thirteen. Dr. and Mrs. Platt are graduates of these schools. This is Mrs. Platt's first visit to her Ellsworth home since 1915. She was married to Dr. Platt in 1916.

The first snow of the season fell Monday, but melted as fast as it fell, though it kept at it for two or three hours.

Mr. and Mrs. George Corneil and daughter Annie spent the week-end at their cottage, "Lone Tree Farm," at Millbridge.

Mrs. W. H. Mack fell on the sidewalk on the Surry road last Thursday morning, breaking her left ankle. She has the sympathy of all in her misfortune.

A Hallowe'en surprise party was given Friday evening at the home of Miss Ferne Richmond, who is soon to leave for Auburn to attend high school. Her friends, wishing to show their esteem and love, presented her with an ivory mirror. The evening was spent enjoyably. Games were played and refreshments were served. Fortunes were told by Mrs. A. P. Royal.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Doyle left Saturday for Portland, Ore., where they will spend the winter with their son Edward. They spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Coney, at Augusta, leaving there Monday. Except for short enforced vacations because of illness, this is the first rest from business Mr. Doyle has taken for years. His shop on Franklin street will be closed until his return in the spring.

Frank Pickering died at his home on Grant street last Thursday, after an illness of but two days, of pneumonia. Mr. Pickering was the son of William Pickering of East Orland. He was in service over seas in the world war. He came to Ellsworth after his discharge, and was employed by the Bar Harbor & Union River Power Co. He is survived by his father, a widow and two brothers, William and Thomas. He was a member of Frank E. Whitmore post, American Legion, members of which attended the funeral Friday, in a body. Rev. R. H. Moyle officiated.

At the meeting of Green Mountain Pomona grange with Bayside grange next Wednesday, there will be an open session in the afternoon, at which the question of forming a Farmers' Co-operative Union will be the subject of addresses by Frank Adams, chief of the bureau of markets, and Charles White, of the State department of agriculture. There will be a general discussion of the subject, and if, as a result of the addresses and discussion, it is thought desirable to organize a union, it will be done at the close of the afternoon session.

The "mystery woman" at the city farm, who was landed here some weeks ago by an automobile party, and is unable or unwilling to tell her name or her home, is now nursing a broken ankle. The woman has kept to her bed nearly all the time since being at the farm. One night recently she made a rope of her bed-clothes and let herself out of the second story window. The rope broke and she fell, breaking her ankle. She refuses to have her photograph taken, and says all she wants is to be put on an automobile and sent along on her way and she can take care of herself.

Sheriff Wescott made a notable capture of an escaped convict from the State prison at Thomaston, when he arrested Albert Murray of Waterville, at Tremont Monday. Murray escaped from Thomaston October 11, and had worked his way as far west as Chicago. But Sheriff Wescott learned that he had been corresponding with a young woman in Tremont, and finally received a "tip" that he was in Tremont. Going to the house in Tremont Monday, Sheriff Wescott remained in hiding, and Murray walked into his arms. He is now in the county jail in Ellsworth, but will be taken back to Thomaston this week.

R. H. Young of Hancock, the veteran guide and sportsman of Hancock county, was in Ellsworth Tuesday, after casting his vote for President. Mr. Young cast his first vote for President for James Buchanan in 1856, and has never failed to vote at a presidential election since, though he has missed one or two State elections because of absence from home. He has always been a democrat, and has voted consistently for democrats for State and county office until this

He does not say how he voted at the presidential election Tuesday, but from the fact that he says it is "never too late to mend," there may be grounds for inferring that he broke another record. Friends in Ellsworth learned with regret of the death Saturday of Edward True Campbell at his home in Seal Harbor, after an illness of several weeks of Bright's disease. Mr. Campbell was born in Ellsworth October 22, 1856. As a young man he entered the store of H. B. Mason in Ellsworth, where he was employed for about fifteen years. For twenty years after this he was in the granite

MEMORIAL RESOLUTIONS.
 Whereas, God, in His infinite wisdom, has removed from our midst our beloved sister, Ella M. Thureston, who has been a faithful chaplain for eight years, and though we deeply deplore her death, we reverently bow to the will of our Heavenly Father, who has seen fit to take one of our very helpful charter members.

Resolved, That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family, who mourn the loss of a faithful sister.

Resolved, That our charter be draped for thirty days in honor of her memory, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes, a copy sent to the bereaved family, and one sent to The Ellsworth American for publication.

MUTUAL BENEFIT COLUMN. Edited by "Aunt Madge."

MOTTO:—HELPFUL AND HOPEFUL.

The purposes of this column are succinctly stated in the title and motto—it is for the mutual benefit, and aims to be helpful and hopeful. Being for the common good it is for the common use—a public servant, a purveyor of information and suggestions, a medium for the interchange of ideas, in this capacity it solicits communications, and its success depends largely on the support given it in this respect. Communications must be signed, but the name of writer will not be printed except by permission. Communications will be subject to approval or rejection by the editor of the column, but none will be rejected without good reason. Address all communications to The American, Ellsworth, Me.

There is no friend like the old friend.
 Who has shared our morning days;
 No greeting like his welcome,
 No homage like his praise;
 Fame is the scentless sunflower,
 With gaudy crown of gold;
 But friendship is the breathing rose,
 With sweets in every fold.

—Holmes.
 "Tis friends who make this desert world
 To blossom as the rose;
 Stew flowers o'er our rugged path,
 Pour sunshine o'er our woes."

Dear M. B. Friends:
 I had a purpose in selecting the poetry this week. It is in acknowledgment of a gift from "Moss" of a beautiful crimson rose which blossomed out of doors in her garden October 24. It has been a ray of brightness all the week. Thanks for such a remembrance.

Brockton, Oct. 22, 1920.
 Dear Aunt Madge and Mutuals:
 I was pleased to read the reunion report from the pen of S. J. Y. Glad to know you were blessed with sunshine. Ford and I spent the afternoon in the hospital with Esther. We sang the reunion songs and tried to make merry as best we could without the "eats," but we all would have chosen "Mountain View" for our meeting place, and hope to be there next year sure.

We are having glorious weather. The first week of this month was fine for the Brockton fair. It was reported as being the most successful affair ever given by the society. Thursday the attendance was $3,139. The total attendance for the four days was 215,311, $165,667 being received in admissions and from the sale of seats. There were many new attractions this year. The W. L. Douglas Shoe Co. had a shoe factory exposition. This miniature factory was operated by forty-six people. A pair of shoes was presented Gov. Coolidge. Work was started on them as the chief executive entered the building and he was allowed to watch with interest the various processes used in manufacturing the famous campaign shoes, and in thirty minutes was allowed to put them on. He said they would come in handy in his tour through the southern states this month. In view of the honor bestowed on the workers here to have the governor campaign in "Brockton-made" shoes, exceptional care was taken by every operative in the factory to have every operation perfect. It was said that a pair could be turned out in seventeen minutes if it came to a question of speed.

The huge airplane searchlight on exhibition by the army recruiting party was very interesting, and several evenings, the rays of light, capable of carrying twenty-five miles, were cast in all directions by the revolving reflector. It was similar to those operated by the signal corps during the war, in air-raids, across the sky in France searching out every spot that might be an aircraft. The travel party of army men had many imple-

USE SLOAN'S TO WARD OFF PAIN

You can just tell by its healthy, stimulating odor, that it is going to do you good

"If I only had some Sloan's Liniment!" How often you've said that! And then when the rheumatic twinge subsided—after hours of suffering—you forgot it!

Don't do it again—get a bottle to-day and keep it handy for possible use tonight! A sudden attack may come on—sciatica, lumbago, sore muscles, backache, stiff joints, neuralgia, the pains and aches resulting from exposure. You'll soon find warmth and relief in Sloan's, the liniment that penetrates without rubbing. Clean, economical. Three sizes—35c, 70c, $1.40 ments of war, including one of the medium-sized tanks, anti-aircraft gun, machine guns and other smaller articles.

Last week I attended a very fine lecture in the Methodist church under the auspices of the Brockton W. C. T. U. Mrs. Lulu L. Shepard of Utah was the speaker. She is touring the country in an effort to put the anti-polygamy bill through Congress. She is known as the silver-tongued orator of the West, has lived in Utah twenty-seven years, and has much to tell of Mormons and Mormonism not known to those who have not had her opportunity for studying the sect.

Mrs. Shepard states that to-day one out of every seventy people in the United States is a Mormon. She told of the great growth of the Mormons in Utah. Among other things she told of the funeral of Joseph Smith, noted head of the Mormon church, whom she knew personally, and of the fact that it took fifty carriages to convey his family to the cemetery.

I suppose the Mutuals have all registered. I went to city hall and stood in line about half an hour one evening. The city has 22,473 eligible to vote; of this number, 9,082 are women.

The sketch of "A Delegate's" trip was exceedingly interesting and I am wondering if it is anyone that I know. I hope we will have a letter from "Charity" soon, to hear how she likes her new surroundings. I wish this warm weather would last a long time and we could do without coal. It is almost impossible to get it in this city at any price.

Good wishes to you all, from
 "H. O. B."

Your welcome letter will be read with much interest. H. O. B., and it was rather a coincidence that the same mail brought me one from Ford, whom you mentioned in your letter as joining with you and Esther in "keeping reunion day" in a proper manner. Ford's good letter follows, and I call your attention to the dedication of one pen to a special service. Don't you all think it is a fine idea?

Dear Aunt Madge:
 I have a dozen new stub pens and will dedicate one of them to the M. B. column, in order to describe a "round robin" trip that I made to Bucksport a few weeks ago. The weather was delightful when I started, and the road to Bucksport over the North Penobscot hills was one long "movie" reel of color. Yellow, scarlet, orange and green flamed from the roadside and gleamed on the distant hills. No state in the Union has such lovely autumn foliage as Maine, and the regal splendor of the fall months prepares us gradually for the cold and snow of winter.

I stopped for awhile in Bucksport at the home of "Beth," who used to write for the column, but is now a backslider. I admired her plants out doors and in her sunny windows, and made love to a little fluffy orange kitten which called me aunt at once.

From Bucksport, Uncle Mark and Aunt Maria took me out to East Bucksport, and I made a little visit on them at North Orland. I spent one night there, and awakened in the morning in a room where petunias, geraniums, a gigantic oxalis and other plants were budding and getting ready to be moved down stairs into the living-house on a small scale.

I didn't have time to visit the aristocratic bobbies, but I admired the two lovely fluffy cats, and sampled the cream from the Guernsey cows that were tied in the field near the house. There were other relatives visiting there, and eight of us sat down to dinner. Among other good things was home-made maple syrup to go on new biscuits—not the little biscuits that remind you of a nickel, but great fluffy ones that must have been mixed near a cream pot.

We lingered long at the table, and after dinner some of the younger members of the party went beech-nutting. No scene in Italy, with its rich coloring, could rival the view from Aunt Maria's front door. The blue hills on the far horizon, and the soft colors of the distant woods, made a picture that no one could describe.

We passed "Law's" house on our homeward way, and had a glimpse of the Alamoosook region, where many city people spend the summer. One Boston man comes every Saturday to stay till Monday morning, from June till November.

Hoping this letter may fill in some week when the "nieces" forget that Aunt Madge has a few things to do besides writing up all the column. I am, yours ever,

"WANDERER"

Dear Aunt Madge:
 After reading the M. B. column this (Wednesday) evening, I hasten to assure you that I most heartily agree with you as to the presidential campaign, and feel like underlining every word. If people thought more of principle and less of personality, what a difference it would make! How is the "respect for law and order" going to increase instead of lessen as the years go by unless the very best men in the country, those of high principles, absolutely honest, those who would not do or say a mean thing, come forward and take an interest in the political life of the nation?

In the past, political affairs have been left too much to those who were in that game only for what they could get out of it, not from any altruistic motive.

Will the new voters help the matter? After all, the nation is what its individuals are; the stream cannot rise higher than its source, so it looks as if the building up of character should begin at the foundation.

Good night. "H."
 This response is gratifying to me because it shows I am not alone in my views on the political condition of the country. Thanks, "H."

MEMORIAL RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas, An all-wise Providence has seen fit to call from our grange to that great grange above our beloved sister, Julia Holstead, therefore be it

Resolved, That in the death of our sister, Ocean View grange has lost a worthy member, and while we sincerely mourn the loss of our sister, let us humbly bow in submission to the will of Him, who, we believe, doeth all things well.

Resolved, That we extend our sincere sympathy to the bereaved family, that our charter be draped in mourning for thirty days, a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy placed on our records and a copy sent to the press for publication.

KEEP YOUNG.

People with bad backs and weak kidneys are apt to feel old at sixty. Many old folks say Doan's Kidney Pills help them keep young. Here's an Ellsworth Falls case:

Levi W. Bennett, retired farmer, Mill St., Ellsworth Falls, Me., says: "Whenever I find my kidneys don't act right or my back gets to paining, I resort to Doan's Kidney Pills and they never fail to cure me. Some times I have noticed after taking cold that my kidneys would get weak and disordered and I would have headaches and dizzy spells. At times, rheumatic trouble would affect my shoulders, arms and hips and it was very painful. I have always gone to Moore's Pharmacy and got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at these times. After using them awhile, my trouble has disappeared. I can recommend Doan's to anyone suffering from their kidneys."

(Statement given December 5, 1914.)

On October 6, 1920, Mr. Bennett said: "Doan's Kidney Pills benefited me greatly and I haven't lost an opportunity to recommend them since. I have never used Doan's, but what they have helped me."

"Fine as silk," is one way of expressing quality, but it is true to the letter when you say it of

WILLIAM TELL

because it is actually as fine as the finest silk can make it.

Every pound of William Tell is sifted through silk, so fine that there are 21,000 meshes to the square inch.

It must go through this silk—not just once, but thirteen successive times.

Because we take no chance on William Tell being clean and fine and pure, you take no chance in using it for all your baking.

Ask your neighbors who use it. They'll tell you William Tell. Tell your grocer.

NO SYSTEM CAN BEAT BANK

But a Certain Old Lady Surely "Threw a Scare" Into the Monte Carlo Authorities.

Lord Rosslyn, and other frequenters of Monte Carlo, who are said to be racking their brains to invent a system to "break the bank," may as well save themselves the trouble, for, as M. Blanc, founder of the gaming tables, once truly said: "Red wins sometimes, black often, but Blanc (white) always, and in defiance of every system human ingenuity can devise."

"There never has been a system," the directors said to an interviewer not long ago, according to London Answers, "which has given us a moment's anxiety—save one, and that one 'system' was the discovery of an old lady who had frequented the tables for years. She had noticed that at roulette certain numbers always followed each other. Thus, if the croupier spun with the number nine opposite him, 26 was certain to be next; and if zero was in the same position, 32 would surely follow. After checking her observations day after day, she began to play, and won—won in all 300,000 francs, breaking the bank three times. The officials were in despair. M. Blanc was summoned from Paris, and, as a desperate resource, he persuaded the old lady to part with her secret for 70,000 francs down."

"The secret was absurdly simple after all. The roulette wheel had become warped by the heat, and was not quite round, so that when spun from a certain point, it invariably stuck at a certain other point."

TURKISH MOSQUE ON WHEELS

Enabled Pilgrims to Mecca to Conduct Their Devotions While on Way to Holy City.

The "chapel railway coaches, with seating accommodation for 90, now fitted to certain long-distance expresses in America, are not entirely a novelty.

A "mosque car" used to be run on the railway built 15 years ago between Damascus and Mecca the capital being subscribed mainly by pious Mussulmans. All the rest of the rolling stock was obtained from countries outside Turkey, but the mosque car was built in Constantinople.

It was externally distinguished by a minaret about eight feet high projecting from the roof; the walls were inscribed with verses of the Koran, and at one end a large compass was hung, indicating the direction of the holy city.

Pilgrims to Mecca were thus able to conduct their devotions with full pomp and ceremony during the three days' journey from Damascus.—London Tit-Bits.

Electricity to Locate Oil.

New uses for electricity are constantly appearing. One of the latest is the detection of crude oil in the earth instead of boring for it. It is stated that crude petroleum has been located electrically in the shallow oil-field near Corsicana, Tex., and that further tests are being made around Burkburnett. A series of batteries is used for the test, the negative terminal being connected to a wire which is dropped into a dry waterhole, valley or indentation, and the positive terminal being connected to a "land wire," which is used to make contact at various points on the surface of the field investigated. It is stated that the higher electrical resistance of oil compared with other constituents of the earth, permits it to be located by the reduced deflection of a sensitive instrument in the circuit.

Pulp Yields 20 Commodities.

Twenty commodities manufactured from near-silk made from the pulp of fir, spruce and hemlock are being exhibited by the West Coast Lumbermen's association in Portland, Ore. The exhibit was prepared in the United States forests products laboratory of the University of Wisconsin and is being sent to all parts of the country for inspection. The commodities include silk cloth, silk stockings, gunpowder, paper absorbent (a substitute for absorbent cotton), paper bagging, rope and twine, linoleum, shingles, reed fiber for furniture and matting, paper lath, rug yarn, paper webbing and phonograph records.—Indianapolis News.

War Brides Away.

Incompatibility of American and French customs has caused 12,000 of approximately 50,000 French war brides to return to France, according to Mrs. Reginald H. Johnson, president of the recently organized L'Espoir Franco-American club in Pittsburgh. The club, formed at the suggestion of Mlle Odette de Bouillon of Paris, who was in Pittsburgh recently, is expected to broaden the interests of French girls who became the brides of Americans overseas, and to make them contented in their new homes.

Pictures Show Effects on Tires.

Slow motion pictures of the type that have amused movie fans by showing down swiftly moving bodies to the point where every action may be analyzed have been utilized by a tire company for a scientific study of just what happens when a heavily loaded motor-truck climbs a curb, drops off an elevation or bumps over a railroad track. This is the first time this very valuable form of photography has been used by a tire company. Among the questions the pictures will aid in solving are the effects of heavy blows on highways, trucks, loads and tires.

WOMAN SUFFERED IN SILENCE

Health Poor, Beauty Fast Fading Away—
Made Believe She Was Well

A woman of New Auburn, Me., writes: "There must be lots of women who feel as I did. I suffered in silence many times on account of my pride, but now I know that a good laxative is essential to good health. I neglected my health, trying to keep cheery and pretending I was all right when I wasn't. I had terrible pains, was 'grouchy,' and my headaches almost killed me with pain, and worst of all, from my viewpoint, I had a sorrowful, unbecoming complexion which was not helped by face powders. Why didn't I try to cure myself rather than pretend? After taking Dr. True's Elixir, I now know that a laxative was what I needed. Dr. True's Elixir is mild and pleasant to take, and works just right for me. My complexion cleared up—bright and ruddy—blemishes vanished and every one remarked how much better I looked."—Mrs. E. J. B., New Auburn, Me.

The root of many of the evils of sickness is the bowels, a very vital part of the human body.

A cold, a fever, diseases or the like can be helped at once, providing the operation of the bowels is normal—the first and most important relief can be had by giving a laxative, be sure it is the proper kind.

Most everybody in these days of quick action and strife, forget their health. The laboring people bolt down their meals, often go to bed right after eating, and wake up in the morning restless, force down a breakfast and then are distressed all day.

An Outdoor Worker says: "I couldn't puzzle out what made me feel so bad. My good, home-cooked meals didn't even taste good, and I had headaches and was grouchy. I never thought it was constipation, but now I know, for I took four doses of your Dr. True's Elixir, and it fixed me up grand. I will never be without it again in case of constipation."—F. E. B., Allston, Mass.

The bowels need attention first and always. Rich foods, improper cooking, irregular and quick eating, lack of exercise all can be offset providing a mild laxative is taken regularly.

A Business Man Writes: "The continual rush of office details and the short meal hours I get, together with, I think, restaurant foods, have simply knocked my system all to pieces. I felt lousy, and had no appetite until I took Dr. True's Elixir, as a laxative. It is a great thing. No one should neglect their bowels."

Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, with an established reputation since 1851 (over 68 years) has accomplished the seemingly impossible. It has relieved thousands of sufferers from constipation, which causes so many terrible disorders.

Dr. True's Elixir will benefit every one: The laborer who eats heartily and quickly; the office boy and girl who eat "fancies" and irregularly; elderly people who can't digest well and children who suffer from intestinal parasites.

Symptoms of worms: Deranged stomach, swollen upper lip, offensive breath, hard and full belly, with occasional pains about the navel, pale face, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose and rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, red points on the tongue, starting during sleep.

Dr. True's Elixir means a big saving to health and pocketbook. "At all dealers." Three sizes. Buy the large size.

"That's the way to heat a house—
each room as you need it"

BY "driving" your furnace or steam heater to keep every room up to 70° or 72°, you invariably make some rooms stuffy—overheated. Up-to-date families keep the whole house reasonably warm with their regular heater and use a Perfection Oil Heater to make the most used rooms extra comfortable and cozy.

This is scientific, direct heating. Where you heat rooms only as they need it, there is a noticeable decrease in coal bills—less care, more comfort.

About 10 hours of heat on a gallon of kerosene
A Perfection Oil Heater will burn about

10 hours on a gallon of kerosene. It is so simple and compact a child could clean it—no fuss, no litter, no ashes.

Wherever you put it you find a radiant glow of cozy warmth. Boil a tea kettle of water on it, let it dry the clothes on a rainy day, take it in the sewing room, put it in the play-room. In coal saved, convenience and general usefulness, it pays for itself many times over.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1920.

The heart of the world has been broken. Made some crash when it broke.

The answer to the "solemn referendum" has been given. The democrats appreciate the solemnity of the occasion.

Any bright girl can be taught the rudiments of nursing in a short time, says the Maine department of health, which feels that such knowledge should be a required part of the training of every woman. To take the pulse and respiration accurately, to prepare and administer the invalid diet, to administer drugs in numerous ways, to attend the personal wants of the sufferer, and to keep an accurate record of the patient and her own doings, can easily be mastered by any intelligent girl.

Next Tuesday evening the people of Ellsworth will be given opportunity to be heard before the public utilities commission on the matter of the proposed increase of water rates. The people believe that even the present rates are much higher than the average in cities of the size of Ellsworth in Maine, and that the proposed rates are excessive. All people who have any information which would be of advantage to lawyers in the case for Ellsworth are urged to give their facts to those lawyers, and also to attend the hearing. The present rates and the proposed new rates are published elsewhere in this issue, with the names of the attorneys in the case.

The Election.

The election of Tuesday leaves no doubt where this country stands on the League of Nations issue, and on the policies and performances of the present administration. The country goes back to republicanism with an overwhelming rush. The days of democratic administration are numbered.

President Harding will have behind him a republican Congress. There will be no division of effort or of responsibility—it is squarely up to the republicans to give the people of this country some measure of relief from present chaotic conditions. We believe they will make good.

The campaign has been complicated by honest division of opinions within both parties on the League of Nations issue, but as opposed to the stand-pat position of the Wilson democrats, the republican proposition, if less definite, apparently was accepted by the voters as offering the best solution of the international problem. How the situation will be met remains to be worked out, and the republicans were honest enough to say so. Certain it is that the Wilson treaty and league will not be accepted in its present form.

The campaign has further been clouded by vilification and slanders such as have not disgraced a presidential campaign in this country in recent years. The voters have registered their disapproval of such campaign methods.

Began the Collar Tyranny.

The earliest pictorial proof of the use of the collar proper dates from Elizabethan times, when the ruff was the principal form of neckwear. After this gold and silver vellum fringes were the fashion for a considerable period, these being supplanted by collars similar to those worn today, save for the fact that they formed part of the shirt. But this arrangement was an extravagant one. As soon as a collar was soiled the shirt had to be shed for washing purposes.

The Old Baby Hole.

(By Lieut. F. M. Smith, U. S. N.)

(The "Baby Hole" was located where Leonard Lake now is, on the eastern side of the river about 500 yards below the old burnt dam and was a famous meeting place for all the younger boys of the northern section of the city, and practically all of them learned to swim there.)

It was down near the bend in the old shore road.

At the place they called Dunne Rise, Where the giant oaks on the hillside steep

Screened it from passer's eyes, Shady and cool 'neath a maple tree

That stood by the water's edge, With whispering branches spreading wide

To the top of a near-by ledge.

The grass was as green as the feathers bright

That gleamed on the parrot's breast, And as soft as the downy nestlings, found

In the shy brown woodcock's nest. The scent of wild flowers filled the air,

And ferns from the steep ledge hung, While high in the branches overhead

The wild birds sweetly sung, 'Twas a picture whose sylvan beauty rare

Is mirrored in my soul, The place where first I learned to swim.

The dear "Old Baby Hole."

It was just where Stabstuck Island Made the water eddy back

From the stream which swiftly passed beyond, With current deep and black.

'Twas an ideal place for a boy to learn, With the water still and cool

And so shallow a boy could almost wade To the shore beyond the pool.

Here through the summer afternoons, With laughter and joyous shout,

Came all the boys from the country round To swim and splash about.

How long and dreary the few hours seemed On a sunny afternoon,

In the little red school on Town-house hill Those first warm days in June,

And with what wild and noisy glee We tumbled out of school

And raced through Cushman's pasture, to The dear old swimming pool.

I can see them now, as in days of old They sat on the river bank,

"Hornet," and "Monkey," and "Lion Moor,"

"Scammy," and "Dick," and "Yank," "Bronco," and "Pug," with his curly hair,

"Farmer Grizzle," and "Lee," "Keeve," and "Kelley," and "Albert Brown,"

"Jimmie," and "Doc," and "Tree," "Crumb," and "Mushrat," and "Happy Leach,"

"Billy," and "Goog," and "Tom," And "Divilly" Lovett, of supple frame,

What stunts he could perform! What thoughts of boyish pranks and feuds

Around those nicknames cling, What memories dear of barefoot days

The mention of them bring, Some have passed to the Great Beyond,

But I feel deep in my soul I shall meet them there as once we met

At the dear "Old Baby Hole."

I've sailed to many a foreign land And swam in a hundred seas;

On the coral sands 'neath Italian skies And Cuban mangrove trees.

I've dove for shells in the big lagoon On far Culebra Isle,

Where the parrot fish, in their rainbow hues, Play 'round you all the while.

Play 'round you all the while, Where the Sugar Loaf in majestic guard

O'er Rio harbor stands, I've breasted the giant breakers

That pound on the clear white sands, From Valparaiso's crag-strewn shores

To the Bay of old Torquay, I've sat on many a moon-lit beach

And swam in the surging sea, But the dearest place to my heart to-day

Is that picture in my soul: The place where I swam as a barefoot boy—

The dear "Old Baby Hole."

The source of practically all the icebergs of the arctic and sub-arctic regions is Greenland. Owing to the northward set of the West Greenland current the bergs of this side are carried first to the north and it is only at about the seventy-fourth or seventy-fifth parallel of latitude that they begin to make their way westward to come down on the American side.

DOGS ASSIST LONDON POLICE

Well-Trained Animals Have Been Found of Great Help in Apprehension of Criminals.

The present wave of crime has given an impetus in Great Britain to the training of dogs for police purposes.

Police dogs were used to assist in bringing the breaker of laws to justice before the word police was ever known. In older days bloodhounds were used on the borders of Scotland in certain districts infested by murderers and robbers, and a tax was laid on the inhabitants for maintaining them; also there was a law in Scotland that whoever denied entrance to one of these dogs should be treated as an accessory to the crime.

The training of these dogs calls for a large amount of patience, intelligence and resource, far removed from the old idea of dog breaking, which was usually to beat the animal mercilessly into the observance of a few set rules.

It is step by step in his daily lessons that a dog gradually becomes a tracker of criminals by their scent, pursues escaping prisoners, discovers missing people, or finds suspected ones in concealment.

He learns fearlessly to seize and pull down any aggressor, whether his master or himself be attacked, and to do it with the least possible damage, ceasing at once when the enemy gives in.

The popular conception of the police dog is a wild, savage brute, which probably accounts for the antipathy to his use displayed in some quarters, and it is well that the public should realize that the properly trained dog is at all times perfectly under control.

Congressman Peters returned home Monday from a campaign speaking tour in New Hampshire, western Massachusetts, New York and New Jersey, carrying to those states the cheering message from the Maine September elections, which made a great hit everywhere. This year's State election put Maine more prominently on the political map of the country than ever before.

At Weehawken, N. J., Congressman Peters made his appearance in theatrical circles, playing, as he says, second part to the famous American actress, Lillian Russell, who spoke at the same meeting. Congressman Peters was entertained while in Weehawken at the delightful home of Mr. and Mrs. Pearl S. Thorsen, of Weehawken and Ellsworth.

ONE THING THEY OVERLOOKED

British Military Authorities Forgot the Humble Printer in Desire to Preserve War Secrets.

The marquis of Hartington tells an episode from the war days when the spy scare was at its height, according to a writer in the Halifax Chronicle. Certain confidential information that the military authorities wanted to keep absolutely secret was sent round by trusted couriers in locked dispatch boxes, with elaborate precautions of signing and countersigning and checking every stage. No one below the rank of major general was entrusted with the knowledge, and even these were bound by tremendous oaths of secrecy.

After a time it was found that these weighty documents, which were circulated in printed form, were being set up by ordinary printers, who were under no obligation to preserve secrecy, and, in fact, took no precautions whatever against leakage. However, nothing did leak out, but the military mandarins, it is said, shuddered when they realized the risks that had been run.

Getting Ready for Channel Tunnel.

The gigantic task of moving back the railway station platforms throughout the Great Northern system to allow the passage of continental trains when the channel tunnel is opened has been begun, the Daily Mail is informed.

"The work of making the stations to fit the trains will take several years," said an official. "It means that every platform in both freight and passenger stations will have to be altered."

The distance the platforms are being set back is two inches. This will allow a good clearance for the continental sleeping cars, and also the large freight cars.

The "gauge" (the distance between the rails) of the continental trains is roughly half an inch wider than the British standard, but the shaping of the tread of the wheels makes it possible for trains of both British and continental system to run on the same track without risk of accident.

When He Died, He Died All Over. "Doggone!" said Jesse Eschbach, chief examiner for the state board of accounts, as he read one of the letters in his mail. "Here is one."

The letter told of a man who had paid his dog tax to the township assessor and the ungrateful cur had gone and died. The dog died before the assessor had turned in his books to the county assessor and the inquirer wished to know whether there was any way to get back the dog tax.

"The cruel law," Mr. Eschbach will reply, "states that taxes are paid on property owned March 1."

"That'll raise a howl!" he added verbally.—Indianapolis News.

Desert Land and Desert Sea.

A portion of the journey between Sydney, the New South Wales capital, and Broken Hill, the mining heart of Australia, lies over waterless hot country. Lieut. Sydney Pickles, who has shown the feasibility of an air service between the two cities, saw no landmark as he crossed the barren stretch and so had to use his compass. Describing the pioneer flight, he compared the interminable rolling land before him to the gray lonely wastes of the North Sea which he had patrolled in his seaplane.

Got Rid of Pesticiferous Fly.

Health authorities at Saranac Lake, N. Y., declare that this probably is the first "flyless town" in the world. Despite the unusually hot weather of last June and July, there were scarcely any more flies in the town than most places have in January. It cost about $1,000 to eradicate the fly nuisance, which was accomplished by requiring that manure be screened and frequently removed.

business at Hall Quarry. For the past ten years he had been employed in the store of his brother-in-law, F. H. Macomber, in Seal Harbor. He leaves, besides a widow, two daughters, Mrs. Julia Weymouth of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Miss Arline Campbell of Seal Harbor, and a son, David, of Seal Harbor. The funeral was held at Seal Harbor Monday. Rev. Mr. Brooks officiating. The Knights of Pythias of Seal Harbor, of which deceased was a member, conducted services at the grave in Seal Harbor.

Mrs. E. L. Easton has joined her husband here for the winter. Mr. Easton is a foreman in the Carroll shoe factory.

The regular meeting of Irene chapter, O. E. S., Friday evening, will be followed by basket lunch. All officers are earnestly requested to be present.

"In time of peace prepare for war." Health Officer H. L. D. Woodruff of Ellsworth calls the attention of parents to the State law requiring that all children attending school be vaccinated. The law has not been generally observed in Ellsworth, but Dr. Woodruff intends to enforce it. There is no smallpox in Hancock county at present, but vaccination is deemed necessary by Dr. Woodruff, not only as a precaution but as a matter of law. He suggests that all children under school age should also be included. He advises parents to take their children to their family physician at once.

Congressman Peters returned home Monday from a campaign speaking tour in New Hampshire, western Massachusetts, New York and New Jersey, carrying to those states the cheering message from the Maine September elections, which made a great hit everywhere. This year's State election put Maine more prominently on the political map of the country than ever before.

At Weehawken, N. J., Congressman Peters made his appearance in theatrical circles, playing, as he says, second part to the famous American actress, Lillian Russell, who spoke at the same meeting. Congressman Peters was entertained while in Weehawken at the delightful home of Mr. and Mrs. Pearl S. Thorsen, of Weehawken and Ellsworth.

THE ELECTION

REPUBLICAN VICTORY THE REPLY TO REFERENDUM.

Harding Will Have Upward of 400 Electoral Votes—A Republican Congress Assured.

The country's reply to the solemn referendum invoked by President Wilson on the League of Nations issue was a decisive republican victory, sweeping from coast to coast. In the eastern and New England states, record republican pluralities were rolled up everywhere, and the same -tuna sea usquequagga of republican victory was only to a lesser degree in the far western states.

Mr. Harding seems assured of 360 electoral votes, with the probability that it will be nearer 400. Only 266 are necessary.

The republicans have apparently won on every doubtful proposition, with some successes they did not anticipate. A republican Congress is assured. Indications are that there will be a republican majority of eight or ten in the Senate.

Maine has apparently outdone its unprecedented September republican plurality of sixty odd thousand, and in a much smaller vote. Of sixteen Maine cities to report complete returns, Harding carried all except Biddeford. In 1916 Wilson carried twelve of these.

IN HANCOCK COUNTY.

Hancock county gave a republican plurality falling only about 200 short of the record plurality given in the State election in September, in a total vote of over 1,250 less. Harding's plurality in the county, with Swan's Island and Long Island missing, is 3,444; Parkhurst's plurality in September was 3,636. The missing towns will swell Harding's plurality to over 3,500. Four years ago Wilson carried Hancock county by a plurality of 125.

Following is the vote of Hancock county in detail, with the votes of Swan's Island and Long Island plantation, which are without telephone communication, missing:

IN ELLSWORTH.

Harding carried Ellsworth by a plurality of 301. Four years ago Ellsworth gave a democratic plurality of 67. In the September election this year, in a total vote about 100 more than on Tuesday, Ellsworth gave Col. Parkhurst a plurality of 245. Following is the vote of Ellsworth by wards:

	Harding, r	Cox, d
Ward 1	190	62

An Incongruous Role

By ALVAH J. GARTH

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Young and beautiful, you say?"

"Barely eighteen. Oh, Dexter! you must meet Verda Burton to appreciate real loveliness."

"Anything to alleviate the dullness of the old place here."

"You will not complain on that score when the summer home people begin to arrive. As to Miss Burton, I know you will like her and, confidentially, she is quite as much interested in you."

Pretty Estelle Lang glanced sidelong at her handsome brother as she spoke. Verda was a beloved college chum, one of their set, and might excite Dexter of his tendency to rove when the impulse seized him. The young man since his graduation had done little but travel. Brazil, Alaska, Labrador—he chose odd and long trips and his people often saw nothing of him for six months at a time.

"I shall be gone all day to see Aunt Virginia," said Estelle, "and will need the chauffeur and the limousine. You can put in the day with the runabout and fishing. I suppose?"

"Don't worry about me while there are woods to explore and new birds and flowers to get acquainted with," replied Dexter. "I think if I followed my bent I would be a naturalist."

"You look one with that hideous coat of tan on you and wearing the corduroy outfit suit that you say has been through Death Valley and the mining reaches of Nome. Really, Dexter, you must get more in touch with civilization before the season begins."

"I am rather proud of my sturdy health and strength, Estelle," replied Dexter. "They have carried me through tests that show what a real man is capable of."

Estelle had been gone for an hour when the telephone rang. A servant started to answer it but Dexter anticipated her.

"I will attend to the call," he said and took up the receiver. "Rossmere?" he spoke. "Yes, and this is Miss Burton? I will take the message, please."

"Won't you ask Miss Lang if she can spare me her chauffeur for an hour or two? Our own has left us and I cannot drive the machine myself."

Dexter's eyes sparkled. Here was the opportunity of seeing the paragon of beauty his sister had so boasted of, and under circumstances which would afford him a chance to scan and study her under an assumed identity.

In his rough and ready attire Dexter would pass very well for an average chauffeur. When he arrived at Rossmere he reported to a servant that he had come on emergency service for Miss Burton, explained what it was and he was taken to the garage and on instructions brought the family car around to the drive.

Miss Burton came up to it and Dexter was repaid for the trouble he was undertaking as he observed that she was truly a creature to admire. Her tone was kind and gracious as she entered the machine, naming several places in the next town which she wished to visit. The servant had placed a basket and several parcels in the auto, and from a word or two passed between maid and mistress Dexter was made aware that Miss Burton was bent upon a mission to the sick and needy.

It took about an hour to deliver her bounty at the poor places she visited and then the return journey was begun. Less than a mile out of the town, turning a curve the machine was put out of commission by a deep rut. Dexter alighted and ascertained the damage done.

"I shall have to get back to town before we can go on," he advised Miss Burton. "If you don't mind, would you remain in the machine until I return?"

"I can pass the time very pleasantly reading," replied Verda with a sweet patience that made her seem more beautiful than ever to Dexter. He was back at the automobile within an hour. He was quite startled as he noticed a book lying on the ground and no sign of his fair passenger, though beyond some trees he caught sight of some moving forms. Swiftly he sped in that direction. It was to come upon a coterie of tramps. Pale and affrighted, near to them stood Miss Burton. Her captors were appraising and dividing the contents of her handbag and had taken from her all her rings and her watch and necklace.

Dexter Lang prepared for a rush and made his quarry. He acted the superb athlete that he was. The unprepared and astonished pilferers went down like wooden men. In full enjoyment of the scrimmage Dexter sent them speeding from the spot in vivid dread, after he had mauled them to his heart's content and recovered their plunder.

"I should not have left you alone, Miss Burton," spoke Dexter.

"I am only a trifle faint," said Verda, taking his arm as they started for the stalled machine. "And oh! Mr. Lang, what splendid work you have done in my behalf!"

"You seem to know me," stammered Dexter, somewhat embarrassed.

"Oh, yes—at the very first. You see Estelle has shown me your photograph more than once," and the eyes of the speaker sparkled mischievously, eyes that were destined to look into those of Dexter Lang later on, full of love, trust and happiness.

TOOK PHYSIC EVERY NIGHT

Then She Heard of "FRUIT-A-TIVES" and Cured Herself of Constipation

MRS. JOHN CAPOZZI

Ashford, New York.

"I feel it my duty to tell you what 'Fruit-a-tives' or Fruit Liver Tablets did for me.

I tried several kinds of physic for over three years; and, of course, while I took it every night my bowels would move; but as soon as I stopped taking physic, I would be constipated and would have Piles terribly.

I heard of 'Fruit-a-tives' and bought one box and took them. Now I am not troubled any more with Constipation and no more Piles. 'Fruit-a-tives' did for me what no other medicine ever did; they left no after-effects, and now I do not have to use physic.

I recommend 'Fruit-a-tives' to all my friends."

Castine.

Russell Wescott spent a week recently in Bangor and vicinity.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bridges, one of Castine's oldest and much respected citizens, died Tuesday Oct. 19, after a long illness. Since selling her home on Green street several years ago, she had been living with her daughter, Mrs. William Blake, who has tenderly cared for her during her illness. She was a member of the Methodist church and of the woman's relief corp. The funeral was held at the home Friday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Mueller officiating. Another daughter, Helen Bridges, of Boston, was here for the funeral.

Stephen Littlefield is home for several weeks.

Robert Spurling and Arthur Connor have gone to New York, where they will be employed during the winter.

Harry Butler has returned to Castine, after being employed during the fall near Fairfield.

Winter Harbor.

Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 27, a wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Weston, when their only daughter, Hazel Belle, was married to Dr. Harvard Ellis Colwell of Lincoln, formerly of Prospect Harbor. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. I. Ramsey of the Baptist church, the single ring service being used. Owing to recent illness in both families, the affair was very quiet, only the immediate relatives being present. The bride is a graduate of Winter Harbor high school, class of 1913, and took a post graduate course in 1914, and was graduated from Farmington normal school in 1917. For one year she taught in Sanford, and the past two years has been in departmental work, teaching arithmetic and history in Abington, Mass. Dr. Colwell is a son of Capt. and Mrs. George Colwell of Prospect Harbor, a graduate of Higgins classical institute, 1915, and of University of Maryland dental college, class of 1918. He is a member of the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity. He enlisted in the dental corps during the war, and was stationed at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. During the last year he has been located at Lincoln. Dr. and Mrs. Colwell left immediately following the ceremony for a brief trip, following which they will locate at Lincoln. They received many gifts. Their many friends extend best wishes.

WE SELL SOCONY MOTOR GASOLINE STANDARD OIL CO. OF N.Y.

The sign of a reliable dealer and the world's best Gasoline

Every motor highway and byway throughout picturesque New England and New York is a part of the long "Socony Trail".

MANY quaint sections of old New London are familiar to thousands of New England motorists. There is a main Socony depot there and many well-distributed filling stations to assure a dependable supply of gasoline and motor oils for all who need them.

The excellence of Socony products and Socony service is uniformly high. Unequalled experience in petroleum refining and progressive methods of distribution have made them possible.

Socony gasoline is always clean and powerful. Every drop of every gallon is the same whenever and wherever you buy it. It vaporizes quickly, ignites easily and burns completely in summer and winter alike. It is the standard of all motor fuels.

Use Socony products regularly. You will notice a favorable difference in the performance of your motor—more power, greater mileage.

Look for the red, white and blue Socony sign.

FAINTING AND DIZZY SPELLS

The Cause of such Symptoms and Remedy Told in This Letter.

Syracuse, N. Y.—"When I commenced the Change of Life I was poorly, had no appetite and had fainting spells. I suffered for two or three years before I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the Liver Pills which I saw advertised in the papers and in your little books. I took about twelve bottles of your Vegetable Compound and found it a wonderful remedy. I commenced to pick up at once and my suffering was relieved. I have told others about your medicine and know of some who have taken it. I am glad to help others all I can."—Mrs. R. E. DEMING, 437 W. Lafayette Ave., Syracuse, N. Y.

While Change of Life is a most critical period of a woman's existence, the annoying symptoms which accompany it may be controlled, and normal health restored by the timely use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Moreover this reliable remedy contains no narcotics or harmful drugs and owes its efficiency to the medicinal extracts of the native roots and herbs which it contains.

FIRST USED IN CIVIL WAR

Idea of Divisional Insignia Is Credited to General Joseph Hooker—Worn as Cap Ornaments.

"The divisional insignia, which was hailed as something of a novelty when it was introduced in the A. E. F., did not stand for an entirely new idea in uniform decorations for an American army," says the Home Sector, the ex-soldiers' weekly.

"Gen. Joseph Hooker—fighting Joe—whose record in another American war fought sixty years ago has not been entirely submerged in the vast history that grew out of that war, had conceived the same insignia idea, and the men of the regiments fighting under him in the Civil war put on a distinctive emblem and thereby established a fashion that was adopted by all the Union forces. The idea did not die with the Civil war, for in the Spanish-American war also American soldiers wore distinctive emblems to show what organization they belonged to.

"The divisional insignia as worn by the A. E. F. was new, however, in the details of its wearing, for the soldiers of the Civil war and of the Spanish-American war did not wear cloth patches on the left shoulder. The fighting men of the Civil war wore their emblems—made of metal, with cloth centers—as cap ornaments. The soldiers of the Spanish-American war displayed their own organization marks—of enameled metal with a clasp backing—planned to their left breast just above the pocket flap."

FINE POINT IN DRAW POKER

Would a Gentleman Take a Pot on a Hand That Was Not Dealt to Him?

Coats off, shirtsleeves rolled up, and sopping handkerchiefs bound tightly round their brows, Bloodthirsty Bill, Cheater Charlie, Daredevil Dick, the dealer, and Slasher Sam sat in solemn conclave round the table, playing a furious game of poker.

Stakes and excitement ran high. Each man seemed to hold a tip-top hand, and none would relinquish the betting. At last time came for the hands to be exposed.

"Four twos!" shrieked Bloodthirsty Bill.

"Four threes!" shouted Cheater Charlie.

"Straight flush!" roared Daredevil Dick, the dealer.

"Royal flush!" screeched Slasher Sam.

Daredevil Dick, the dealer, was staggered.

"Take it, Sam, if you've got the nerve," he muttered; "but you know it's not the hand I dealt you."—London Tit-Bits.

World's Races Divided.

Amphibians are the people who inhabit the tropics, whose shadows in one part of the year are cast to the north and in the other to the south, according as the sun is north or south of their zenith.

The antiscians are the inhabitants of the earth living on different sides of the equator, whose shadows at noon are cast in contrary directions. Those living north of the equator are antiscians to those living south of that line, and vice versa. The shadows on one side are cast toward the north and upon the other toward the south.

The asclians are the people who live in a land where, at a certain time of each year, they have no shadows at noon. All the inhabitants of the torrid zone are asclians, they having a vertical sun twice a year.

The periscians are the inhabitants of the polar circle, whose shadows during some portions of the summer must in the course of the day move entirely around and fall toward every point of the compass.

Island of Crete "Upending."

In the course of a discussion on the subject of Crete at the Royal Geographical society, Prof. L. J. Myres described two remarkable changes of ground level that have occurred there since classical times, says the Scientific American.

The whole island has swung upon an axis, the eastern half sinking and the western rising, so that whereas at Hierapetrus and Spinalonga the ancient quays and harbor works are now under water, the little Greek harbor of Phalasarna, at the west end of the island, is now totally upheaved, so that one can walk about on the floor of the ancient harbor, upraised and dry.

Chinese Engineers Hate Toil.

In no branch of modern progress has China advanced during the last twenty years more than in engineering, if we except, perhaps, medicine. The Chinese engineer has come to stay. He is a much-criticized person, and the principal objection the up-to-date modern engineer offers against him is that he refuses to undergo the long and tedious period of training necessary in any branch of engineering today: if he can become an engineer without soiling his hands or taking off his coat, he is quite willing to pose as having mastered engineering; but he objects to the toil and the dirty work.

READY TO GIVE UP AFTER LONG FIGHT.

Was So Worn Out He Could Hardly Work—Tanlac Restored Him To Splendid Health.

"Since taking Tanlac I am enjoying such fine health I can't tell I was ever troubled in any way in my life," said Michael J. McCoy, of 27 Carey Lane, Portland, Maine.

"My health broke down about a year ago, and since then I have hardly been able to stay at work, for I would have to give up and lay off every week or two. I lost my appetite, and sometimes just the sight of food made me so nauseated I couldn't even go to the table. Naturally, I commenced to lose in weight, and I got awfully weak and nervous. I had cramps and pains in my limbs and arms, and in my fingers and toes. During the first part of the night I could never sleep a wink, and when I did finally drop off to sleep it wasn't but three or four hours until it was time to get up. All the time I had that tired-out good-for-nothing feeling that makes a fellow ready to give up.

"About two months ago I started taking Tanlac and it hit the spot right away, and in no time I was feeling like a different man altogether. I am hungry all the time now and can eat anything set before me and digest it as good as I ever could in my life. The cramps have left me entirely and my nerves are as strong as steel and I sleep like a log every night. I have gained eleven pounds in weight, am working hard every day and I am feeling better and stronger than I have in years. I certainly can recommend Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Ellsworth by E. G. Moore, in Sullivan by Dunbar Bros., in Little Deer Isle by H. G. Eaton, in Ashville by C. C. Small, in South Bluehill by M. B. Grindle, and by the leading druggists in every town.—Adv.

COUNTY SEED SHOW.

Plans for Exhibition and Annual Farm Bureau Meeting.

The county seed show and annual meeting of the Hancock County Farm Bureau will be held Tuesday, Nov. 9, at Hancock hall, Ellsworth. The seed show is open to every person in the county, and it is hoped that a great many will take this opportunity to exhibit seed. The seeds will consist largely of potatoes, different kinds of grain, beans and peas, all small seeds are also on the premium list.

The annual meeting will start about 10 o'clock in the morning, and will continue into the afternoon. Prominent speakers, from various parts of the State will talk on co-operation among farmers, and Farm Bureau work. Demonstrations will also be given. There will be a tractor display at the hall, and two experts on tractor management and operation will be there to answer questions. This display is to be put on by Morang's garage of Ellsworth.

Exhibits for the seed show should be sent to the Farm Bureau office at Ellsworth or brought to the hall by the exhibitor before 10 o'clock on the morning of the show. Everyone should try to make an exhibit and be present. Business will take up the first part of the meeting, the latter part being devoted to other features.

A sheep-treating demonstration by the sheep specialist of the University of Maine will be given.

Following is the premium list, open to all, whether members of the Farm Bureau or not.

CLEAR CALL TO AMERICANS

Year 1920 Should Be Remembered by All as Anniversary of Establishment of Free Institutions.

Distinguished Americans, including William H. Taft, Charles Hughes and Cardinal Gibbons, have appealed to their fellow countrymen to remember and honor by local celebrations at any suitable time beginning June 4 the establishment of free institutions in America. A great year is 1920. Three hundred years ago beginning the 30th of last July, there was being held in Jamestown, colony of Virginia, the first American legislative assembly called by free men of lawful age and understanding. And during this time, with self-government at its birth hour, the Pilgrims from England after a twelve years' sojourn in Holland were making ready to establish in the new world a home of religious freedom. One year after the Virginians met, this Pilgrim band set sail for America, departing from Leyden, Holland, July 30, 1620. Furthermore let it not be forgotten that Nov. 11 is not only the anniversary day of signing of the Mayflower compact, second assumption by English colonies in America of the unalienable right of self-government, but it is also of the signing of the armistice closing the great war in which, as the above representative spokesmen point out, the descendants of the Pilgrims of New England and the cavaliers of Virginia and their kindred crossed the sea and won liberty together. A year with an imperative challenge to renew policies of Americanization and patriotic consecration is 1920, and no community should be without its religious and civic expression in acknowledgment of the past and in dedication to the future.

Landmark to Be Preserved.

The Mullan trail, landmark of the old Mullan trail, the first highway connecting Montana and Idaho with the coast, will be preserved to posterity through the creation of a national monument area by the president. On July 4, 1861, Captain John Mullan, leader of the party having in charge the survey and construction of the Mullan trail from Walla Walla, Wash., to Ft. Benton, Mont., closed his work at the connecting point of the roads from the east and west, at the head of the Fourth of July canyon, between Wallace, Idaho, and Coeur d'Alene, Idaho. There he marked appropriately a huge white pine tree, which since that time has been known as the Mullan tree. Tourists seeking souvenirs of their jaunt along the Yellowstone trail have damaged the ancient tree so much that forest service officers have found it necessary to take steps to protect it, and to accomplish this have submitted a petition proposing that a national monument area be created, which has been approved.—Kansas City Journal.

The Family Knew.

A certain thrifty young man often calls on a certain young woman, but never yet has he ever taken her to a picture show or out riding in his automobile or even to the corner drug store for ice cream. The family has noticed and often commented on what they term his "stinginess," and all before the young woman's ten-year-old brother.

Now, the other night the ten-year-old youngster was in the living room while the young man was calling. The caller, who was sitting close to the fireplace and stretching forth his hands to the cheerful blaze, suddenly said, "Oh, how I do love to sit before your fireplace and think, think—"

Like a flash came a quick interruption from the ten-year-old. "Think—think of how you are saving money by sitting here," he said.—Indianapolis News.

Wireless Experiments.

Valuable experiments in wireless telegraphy are being conducted by the French war sloop Aldebaran, which has been cruising in the Pacific near the Chatham and Bounty Islands. Lieutenant Guiller, wireless expert, will probably submit the result of his experiments to the international wireless conference in Washington shortly. He states that the wireless "reception" in New Zealand from French instruments is of special interest to continental experts, as New Zealand is practically the antipode of France. It is claimed that the Aldebaran is carrying out for the first time a truly comprehensive system of measuring the strength of "receptions," although an American had pioneered the way in this respect.

Philippine Sugar Industry.

Five modern sugar mills are projected in Negros, P. I., with a total capacity of 5,000 tons of cane daily. Ten mills with a capacity of 3,000 tons of cane daily are already in operation in this district. The movement for better equipment and organization in sugar centrals is likely to continue until every sugar district capable of supporting a central is supplied with modern mills. The general rate of payment made by the centrals to the farmers for their cane is 55 per cent of the value of the sugar obtained.

The Doughnut Band.

Twenty young Salvation army lasses who cooked doughnuts for the soldiers in France have organized a brass band in Philadelphia.

In the Game of Life.

When a man plays the deuce it is frequently his last card.—Boston Transcript.

MANY HAVE WRITTEN OF WAR

From Homer to the Present Day Correspondents Have Accompanied the Armies in the Field.

War correspondents, who have a distinguished place in the latest honors list, form an ancient tribe if we reckon Homer as one of them, remarks the Manchester Guardian. Sutherland Edwards maintained that the editor of a Greek paper entitled Chronos sent Homer out to Troy to describe the incidents of the siege, which really lasted only about seven weeks. But when it was at an end the Greek chiefs had no desire whatever to go home; and as Homer (or "O'Maher"—to give his name in its original un-Hellenized form) was a very good fellow and drew a large salary with an abundant allowance for expenses, he readily accepted the idea proposed by the wise Ulysses—to keep the war going in the columns of his paper as long as he could manage to write about it. His correspondence was too good not to publish; and meantime the Greek chiefs went about amusing themselves.

There were no newspaper correspondents in the peninsular war, nor in the Waterloo campaign—though Rothschild, in 1815, had a correspondent of his own who kept close to Wellington's army and supplied his employer with news of high financial value. After the peace of 1815 the first war of importance in Europe was the one between the Carlists and the Christians in Spain, which, beginning in 1831, dragged on in desultory fashion until 1837, when a British legion having been formed to assist the Christians, it attracted much attention in this country. British opinion was divided, Queen Christina finding support among the whigs, Don Carlos among the Tories. Both armies were accused of committing atrocities, so the Times and the Morning Post sent correspondents to find out how the war was really being carried on. Capt. Henningsen, who represented the Times, was an admirable writer and a professional soldier, whereas Charles Gruisen, who went on behalf of the Post, possessed no military experience. Still, he proved the more successful of the two, for Henningsen's letters never reached the Times, Gruisen's, on the other hand, appeared in the Morning Post, and on this rests the claim put forward, not by Gruisen himself but by his friends, for classifying him as the earliest of our war correspondents.

Now the "Fliiver" Airplane.

The perfection of a small, simplified airplane with a purchase price and upkeep within the reach of the average man, has often been attempted in both Europe and America. One of the latest American attempts has resulted in the completion of a little monoplane, says Popular Mechanics Magazine, that measures only twenty-five feet eight inches in span, weighs only 350 pounds when empty, yet is very satisfactory in performance. The single-seat body is of the monocoque shell type, with the four struts of the pylon rising in front of the cockpit. Bracing wires stretch from the pylon to eight points on the spars of the right and left wing. Ailerons are of the wing tip, unbalanced variety. A twin cylinder, opposed engine drives the machine, giving it a maximum speed of seventy-five miles an hour with a load of 250 pounds.

The Unmistakable Cockney.

Lady Georgiana Peel tells some good stories in her "Recollections." One concerns her father-in-law, General Peel. He was at a banquet in Paris. Mistaking his capability of conversing in French, he talked during most of the dinner to a neighbor who he knew liked airing his English; but after a time he made up his mind he must talk to the silent French gentleman on his left.

He gathered his French together, and hazarded a remark: "Quelle chambre magnifique!" he said, with many distinctly foreign gesticulations. The man leant towards him confidentially. General Peel braced himself to understand. "Ain't a patch on our Guildhall," was the whisper that reached him with an unmistakable accent.

Woman Question Again.

One day Karl Edwin Harriman made a pilgrimage to General Weston's Connecticut farm and on the last lap of the journey took a jitney. The driver had his wife on the front seat with him and Harriman noticed later that it was the wife who collected the fare. As they traveled the editor spoke about the author.

"It's just like George Weston's impudence to write stories about women," said Mrs. Jehu. "What does he know about women? Ain't even married."

"That ain't no argument," said the jitney driver, sadly, "maybe he knows too all-fired much about 'em to git married."

Thorough Job of Destruction.

William Funk, a truckman at Winsted, Conn., trying to sell at auction a wagon which cost him $350 several years ago, found that nobody would bid more than $5 for it. Rather than sell it to anybody at that price, he took the wagon to the city dump, pulled it to pieces, "brev the bolts in various directions, made a pile of the wheels, placed the rest of the wagon on top, sprinkled kerosene all over the heap, set it afire, and left the dump, satisfied that no one would get his wagon for a song.

GOOD IN POVERTY

Mr. Goslington Does a Little Philosophizing.

Sees Much Benefit in the Necessity to Work and Also in the Worry Which Falls to the Lot of Majority of Mankind.

"Glimmerby, my friend Glimmerby," said Mr. Goslington, "propounds the theory that both poverty and worry are conducive to longevity; and I think there is something in that. I am not so sure about the worry, and yet I think even that may be true. I can see, for instance, that if a man worried hard enough he would keep himself lean and so escape the ills and inconveniences attendant upon obesity; but that poverty tends to lengthen life I have no doubt whatever.

"The man who is poor, as we most of us are, has to work for a living. Surely it is in work that we are most blessed; and if we have work to do in which we are interested, that appeals to us, then are we fortunate indeed; we find a pleasure in labor and a joy in accomplishment; and it makes me smile to think how in such work we forget our worries entirely.

"So we don't really need to consider whether worry is a life prolonger or not; all we want to lengthen our days is to be poor, poor enough so that we have to work and keep plugging; but I do wonder that Glimmerby did not mention along with poverty and worry, as among the things that might tend to prolong life, our physical ailments.

"Some years ago a friend of mine began to lose weight and he kept on in that way until he had lost 25 pounds. Then he consulted a doctor. It was something that could be checked, controlled and perhaps entirely cured if the patient would follow faithfully the prescribed treatment; and then he was told that the general benefits he would derive from the treatment were such that his life might be prolonged to a greater limit than it would have reached if he had never had this ailment at all.

"I might add that this friend has now regained several of his lost pounds, he is feeling very chipper and cheerful and he fully expects to live to be a very old man.

"The fact is that many things that we may look at, when they come upon us, as drawbacks are in reality blessings in disguise."

Australians Well Off.

In no part of the world is there a population apparently better fed and better provided with the ordinary necessities of life than in Australia and New Zealand. There is an absence of indications of poverty, and in the cities slums are rare. On the streets there is a healthy, bustling population of a type more like the dwellers in the cities of the middle West than those of London or Liverpool. The visitor recognizes the self-reliant spirit of a people detached from the rest of the world who have their own problems to solve, and are peculiarly ready to accept innovations. There is a great fondness for sports, football, tennis, surf bathing, which is possible all the year round in portions of Australia, and, most of all, for horse racing, in connection with which there is a great amount of gambling, which the state sanctions by taking a certain percentage of the sales in the pool rooms.—Exchange.

Old Rome Has Paper Shortage.

Le Figaro of Paris has unearthed for its readers what it believes is the world's first recorded paper shortage. It quotes from the "Causeries du Lundi" where Sainte-Beuve, translating from Pliny, says that under Tiberius there was such a scarcity of paper in the Roman empire that it was necessary to appoint senators to regulate distribution; in other words, a congressional board of control.

Sainte-Beuve, grown cynical in his day of excessive erudition, books, ink and paper, added:

"How welcome such a shortage would be now! But such things happened only under Tiberius. We cannot hope for like happiness today." Le Figaro finds Sainte-Beuve refreshing reading, but in view of the situation in 1920, unduly appreciative of Tiberius.

Sheep Should Be Sheep.

A recently published book dealing with political and social affairs in England is called "The Island of Sheep," whose authors (one of whom is a prominent British statesman) are disguised as "Cadmus" and "Harmonia." The sheep referred to are the English and the Island Great Britain. The Butcher's Advocate, aroused by the happy thought of an island filled with muttons, writes for a copy of "Cadmus H. Harmonia" to review. "It being," they claim, "of exceptional interest to the people reached by our weekly."

River Football Revived.

Some athletic enthusiasts of Derbyshire, England, have recently revived the game of river football, which is said to be a combination of polo, soccer, basketball, wrestling, swimming and pugilism. It is not exactly a "lady's game."

China's Thirst for Education.

The sudden demand for popular education in China is shown by the fact that the school attendance in one province has increased 8,000 per cent in five years.

Old Cup Carved of Wood.

A cup, which is in the possession of Mrs. Margaret Schulteis, Main avenue, Montebello park, Harford road, Baltimore, is a century and a half old, having been exhibited at the world's fair in Vienna in 1876 and at the Centennial in Philadelphia in 1876, says the American Forestry Magazine of Washington, D. C. It is the work of L. R. Wildenforce, and is exquisitely wrought from a brown wood. It has a silver cup inside, which is covered by the carved lid. The figures represent Bacchus and a group of nymphs and satyrs and the small figures are perfect in every detail.

Adjustable Stopper.

A new adjustable stopper is of rubber with a nickel screw imbedded in the center. The lower end of the screw is swiveled in a brass washer so as to turn without engaging the thread, but a second washer or nut near the top is acted on by the screw in the usual way. Turning the screw to the right draws the washers nearer together, expanding the rubber so as to hold the stopper securely in the container. When the screw is turned to the left, the washers are pushed farther apart, the rubber is contracted, and the stopper is withdrawn without effort.

Mosquitoes Need Pure Water.

That mosquitoes, like other animals, require pure water is one of the surprises of the United States public health service. Larvae were placed in stagnant water containing much decaying vegetation and usually weakened rapidly, dying in a few days. It was not determined whether the effect was due to bacteria of protozoa, or to carbon dioxide or other gases from the decomposition. Given plenty of food the purest water seemed best for the mosquitoes and more than cleaning stagnant pools will be required to get rid of them.

Origin of Attar of Roses.

Tradition says that the scent of attar of roses originated through a certain sultan ordering a fountain in his garden to be kept supplied with rose-water. The action of the sun presently concentrated the oily particles which rose to the surface, and the gardener, supposing the water to have become corrupt, skimmed off the floating oil. In this operation some of the globules burst, releasing a delightful fragrance.

Edison's First Studio.

Edison's first studio was called the "Black Maria." It was an oblong wooden structure and had a movable roof. The roof could be raised and lowered at will. The studio building was painted black both inside and out. Instead of beautiful scenery for a background only the bare black walls made a uniform back for all productions. The entire structure was set on a pivot so that it could be swung round to face the sun, which was the only available light.

Daffodil Flower of the Wild.

The daffodil, the glory of English lawns and cool pastures, has other qualities besides beauty to endure it. It is not a bit fastidious either about soil or culture. It only requires to be planted and left at liberty, and it enjoys the constitution of a coltsfoot, says Maxwell. Only in one respect does it fail to rival most others of the family—it is scentless. It is a true child of the field and the wood, never to be seen at its best in formal borders or plantings.

Sargentville.

Mrs. Susan M. Hooper reached her eightieth birthday Oct. 25. Her friends, wishing to honor the occasion, called at her home in the evening to extend congratulations, and a pleasant hour was spent. The hostess also entertained the company with witty stories and reminiscences, and by playing from memory several selections on the accordion, which she used to play many years ago. She received many birthday gifts from those present, and also from absent friends, among the gifts being a birthday cake with candles. With the exception of failing eyesight, Mrs. Hooper shows little evidence of her advanced age. Her intellect is as clear as that of a young person, and her step is as sprightly as that of people many years younger. She is a famous knitter, and her nimble fingers are seldom idle. She has for many years been a valued member of the Christian Endeavor society, and is a constant attendant at Sunday school. Her many friends wish her many returns of her birthday.

Otis.

W. J. Murphy of Bangor and Van Buren, who owns the mill and camp and the extensive timber lands here, including the thousand-acre lot, has sold the stumpage to H. L. Day & Son of Bangor. The contract includes the use of the mill and camp outfit. Mr. Day's managers and some employees arrived Saturday to start operations.
